

Unit II

Crime Scene Processing

Crime scene processing involves taking steps to ensure the methodical and lawful collection of information and evidence at a crime scene. Proper processing aids in the reconstruction of a crime and assists in the admissibility of evidence for court proceedings. Presented in this unit are investigations in which you will learn the steps used in processing a crime scene, the proper procedures for packaging evidence such as cartridge casings, fibers and bloody fabric, how to differentiate between and create rough and final sketches of a crime scene and develop an understanding of the chain of custody of evidence.
